About American Gene Technologies

AGT was founded in 2008 and has developed its technology platform and related intellectual property at its Rockville, Maryland laboratories. AGT recently advanced one of its target therapeutics to the final preclinical phase with a successful pre-IND meeting with the FDA. An IND application is being finalized to initiate a Phase 1 human trial for an HIV functional cure that will evaluate safety of an autologous cell product. AGT anticipates initiating human trials this year for HIV. In parallel, AGT is actively developing INDs for phenylketonuria (“PKU”) and hepatocellular carcinoma (“HCC”). AGT has developed extensive IP surrounding lentiviral platform innovations that accelerates the development of a wide variety of drug candidates, provides significant opportunities for out-licensing, and offers exciting clinical opportunities in large and orphan indications, complex diseases, and monogenic disorders.
